

Town & Country Bank lands unexpected award at 'Best of State' gala

Written by or for St. George News May 20, 2016

L-R: Town & Country Bank Chief Lending Officer West Martin and CEO Bruce Jensen at the Best of State gala at the Salt Palace Convention Center, Salt Lake City, Utah, date not specified | Photo courtesy of Town & Country Bank, St. George News

ST. GEORGE — Locally based Town & Country Bank was expecting to leave Wednesday's "Best of State" gala in Salt Lake City with the medal for the "Banking" category. Instead, in addition to the banking medal, the small Southern Utah bank was awarded the Best of State statue for the entire field of "Business Services."

Judges announced that Town & Country topped all 37 medalists for this highest Best of State honor. Business Services categories include accounting, advertising, banking, insurance, real estate services, financial and investment advisory services, commercial construction, data services, health care facilities and dozens of others.

The Best of State medals are given to those who excel in achievement, innovation and contributions to quality of life in Utah. Town & Country Bank CEO Bruce Jensen accepted the bank's medal and statue at the Salt Palace Convention Center, telling the approximately 2,000 attendees how proud he was of his exceptional team members who have consistently executed on the bank's aggressive strategic plan.

Town & Country Bank CEO Bruce Jensen accepted the bank's medal and statue at the Salt Palace Convention Center, Salt Lake City, Utah, date not specified | Photo courtesy of Town & Country Bank, St. George News

Town & Country Bank CEO Bruce Jensen accepted the bank's medal and statue at the Salt Palace Convention Center, Salt Lake City, Utah, date not specified | Photo courtesy of Town & Country Bank, St. George News