Town & Country Bank Adds Mortgage Unit

ST. GEORGE, UT—Town & Country Bank has created a mortgage origination unit within its Loan Department. The new unit is managed by mortgage veteran, Melodi Mathews, who brings two decades of mortgage experience to Town & Country. With the new mortgage operation, the bank will source and underwrite residential mortgage loans, and then sell them into the secondary market. Ms. Mathews will be assisted by Samantha Arnold, who joined the bank as a mortgage loan processor.

“Having this capability will better serve our customers and it rounds out our product offering as a true, full-service community bank,” says P. West Martin, Executive Vice President & Chief Lending Officer. “We’re fortunate to have Melodi and Samantha on board to lend their talents to this effort.”

Town & Country reports that, despite tight credit conditions locally, it has money to lend to consumers, home buyers and businesses. The two year-old bank says its loan portfolio is healthy and that it has consistently outpaced growth targets since inception.
