Darcy Stewart Added to Town & Country Bank Board

ST.GEORGE – Locally-headquartered Town & Country Bank announced that real estate developer Darcy Stewart has joined its Board of Directors.

Stewart is the visionary behind the successful active-adult community of Sun River St. George, and has been involved in a variety of real estate development and construction projects, including the construction and development of The Boulders, St. James Place, Copper Hills, the Sun River Professional Plaza, Parkway Plaza, Virgilia Terrace, and others.

Prior to his career as a developer, Stewart worked at Dean Witter, where he provided financial planning, insurance and portfolio management services. He currently serves on the Major Gifts Committee of the Foundation of Dixie Regional Medical Center, and on the board of directors for many organizations, including the Foundation for Dixie State University, the Dinosaur Discovery Museum, and Dixie Applied Technology College.

Town & Country Board Chairman Kurt Johnson said, "Darcy's business expertise will be of great value to our institution. He is financially savvy and well connected in our community." Stewart replaces former St. George Mayor Dan McArthur, who was recently called as a Mission President in Monterey, Mexico for The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Town & Country Bank opened seven years ago and has become one of the most profitable banks in the United States. It has also pioneered a variety of unique products and services—many of which are now seeing widespread adoption at banks across the country. Earlier this month, Town & Country's president, Bruce Jensen, was named "CEO of the Year" by Utah Business magazine, and "Community Banker of the Year" by the Western Independent Bankers Association.
